Russell W. Gilkison
Superintendent

Dear RSW Regional Jail Community,

During the last fiscal year RSW Regional Jail continued to maintain high safety standards even through the many challenges revolving around the COVID-19 pandemic. The pandemic forced us to adopt additional cleaning protocols and procedures for the intake of inmates so that the spread of COVID-19 would be limited if it ever entered the facility. RSW did experience an outbreak on May 29th, but with the help of our staff, and guidance from the Virginia Department of Health, our facility was free of COVID-19 by June 16th. We were very fortunate to have no hospitalizations due to the virus.

E-tablets continue to be an effective tool across the inmate population and were especially helpful at the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic when visitation ceased. All inmates possess a tablet within our population which enables them to communicate with their friends and family, watch educational videos and programs, and access the Law Library 24/7. By allowing and encouraging tablet use, inmates are able to spend their time incarcerated wisely while gaining useful skills and knowledge to help them reenter society and the workforce upon release.

Our staff continued to contribute to our community in various ways even though the COVID-19 pandemic limited opportunities for community outreach. RSW staff pulled together to raise money and collect cans and nonperishable items for 95.3 the River's 10th Annual Camping for Hunger food drive. They also assisted with delivery and organization of the event. Other community events that RSW engaged in include World of Work and National Night Out. Even though the COVID-19 pandemic reduced the amount of events staff was able to participate in, I am hopeful that we will be able return to our normal contributions in the next fiscal year.

I am very proud of our staff for stepping up during this challenging time, and I am thankful for the support of the board and communities we serve.

Sincerely,

Russell Gilkison, Superintendent

The Classification Department takes into account the physical and mental state, initial incarceration behavior and mannerisms, and risk assessment based on charges—both past and present, of all inmates booked into RSW Regional Jail when assigning housing and determining eligibility of program participation. The Local Inmate Data System (LIDS) technician acts as a liaison between the Virginia Compensation Board, the Virginia Department of Corrections, and RSW Regional Jail. The LIDS clerk is in charge of managing the records of all locally responsible inmates. Locally responsible inmates refers to offenders sentenced to a misdemeanor and offenders sentenced to twelve months or less.
